AFTER FOUR YEARS.

FLORENCE BLYTHE WINS THE CELEBRATED LAWSUIT.

A Farmer Kills His Wife and then Committed—Castle the Fort Townsend Murderer Lodged in Jail—Churches Kicking Against Sunday Building, Etc.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—The Blythe case was decided in favor of Florence Blythe this morning. The case has caused a good deal of trouble to the courts and lawyers in San Francisco for over four years, as about 20 people have appeared at different times during that period and claimed to be the lawful heirs of the late Thomas Blythe, one of the early miners of California. Florence Blythe who has at last won the case was the wife of Blythe but it has taken her all this time to prove it.

Homicide and Suicide.

MECHANICSBURG, Pa., July 31.—Jeremiah Miller, a wood chopper, who lived in a cabin on North Mountain, about eight miles from here, shot his wife yesterday and then killed himself. Miller with his wife and nine children lived out of a way place on the mountain, and earned a scanty living by selling wood in the valley. Yesterday, on the woman's return from her usual trip to the valley towns, her husband accused the wife of infidelity, and [illegible] a shot-gun and emptied the contents into his wife's breast. Miller then placed the gun on the ground and fired the remaining barrel into his own stomach, killing himself instantly. Mrs. Miller is mortally wounded and cannot survive. She always bore a good character, and said her husband's accusation was unfounded.

Found Dead in his Cabin.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 31.—Geo. L. Schuyler of New York, the guest of Commodore Gerry on board the flag ship Electra of the New York squadron off Pequothsug, New London, was found dead in his cabin this morning. The Electra will remain until this afternoon and then convey the remains to Newport.

Female Duellists.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Lizzie Edwards, of 128 Fourth avenue, and Birdie Lee, of 379 South Clark street, fought a duel in front of Lizzie's abode. Five shots were exchanged and a portion of Birdie's chin was carried away by a bullet. Both were arrested and locked up at the armory station. The fight was for a worthless fellow who had been dividing his attentions between them.

A Murderer Captured.

PORT TOWNSEND, July 30.—Dominico Coella, the murderer of Joseph E. Deletis, is safely lodged behind prison bars in Jefferson county jail. The murder of Deletis was one of the most atrocious ever known in the Northwest. He was found on the morning of July 8 lying across his bed with his head nearly cut off and the bed and room smeared with blood. All the circumstances pointed to the guilt of a Greek his employ, Dominico Coella, but he had disappeared about midnight on the night of the murder, and had eight hours start of the officers. A reward of $500 was offered for his arrest, but up to a week ago no trace of him was found. About that time Chief of Police Delaney obtained a clue to him and set a trap which effected his capture at 1 o'clock this morning on the Irving Park race track on the Port Discovery road.

Coella was coming into town and had a Winchester rifle across his arm. Delaney and two other officers were in hiding at the race track for the man, and as he came along they ordered him to throw up his hands. Quick as a flash he fired at them, the bullet grazing one of the officers' cheeks. They both fired at the murderer, and he fell to the ground as if dead. He expected to die, and begged the officers to end his life at once, to save him from the rope. He consented to make a confession before he died, and told the whole story of his crime. He said Deletis owed him $600 wages and refused to pay, which caused a quarrel. The two were drinking wine together, when Coella became very mad and knocked his employer insensible with a big hammer lying on the table. Then he took a razor and cut his victim's throat, and went through his trunk to get what money he could. The murderer immediately left the city, going through the back streets and hiding in the woods near Eagle creek. He washed his hands and changed his clothes on the beach near the city while leaving. He claims that he only found $15 in the murdered man's trunk, but the officers found $104 on him when captured. Chief of police Delany and Sheriff Delaney did good detective work in making the capture.

Good News for Squatters.

PORT ANGELES, July 29.—The amendment to the sundry civil bill for a survey and sale of Government land at Port Angeles, will be amended in the House so that the men who have located on the property as squatters may prove up by paying from $10 to $40 for a lot, and thus settle the dispute as to title.

BATHING DRESSES.

The Police May be Asked to Interfere—Sunday Observance Question.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 31.—At a largely attended state convention in the Seventh Presbyterian church, a number of [illegible] prevailed at the various seaside resorts in the shape of bathing, excursions, drinking and board walk promenades. Many measures which might tend to suppress these evils on the Sabbath day were discussed. The subject of general moral observance at seaside resorts was also considered, and general approval given to the regulations which are enforced at Seabright and other places. Among them are the following: "For the sake of example all respectable people are requested to discountenance the practice of the sexes of assuming attitudes on the beach that would be considered immoral at their city home of sixty whole." If this rule is not observed it becomes the duty of the police to serve a small card on the offending party, and if the thing is repeated the offender must be ordered from the beach. Modesty of apparel is as becoming to a lady in a bathing dress as it is to a lady dressed in silk and satin. As a rule respectable people retire from the beach at 10:30 in the evening.

The different phases of the Sabbath question was discussed by the secretaries of the American Sabbath Association and others.

WHOLESALE LIBEL SUITS.

A Marquis to go for the Scalps of American Editors.

NEW YORK, July 30.—A cable special from London to the Sun says: Marquis De Leuville rushed into the London office of the Sun this morning in a frenzied state of excitement. Waving aloft a handful of clippings from the American newspapers he had just obtained from an agency, he informed your correspondent that he had consulted his solicitor and would start in a week or so for New York to sue the press of the United States for libel. Charles Kemble DeLeuville, his legal adviser said: "I shall accompany De Leuville to America and we shall vigorously prosecute all those newspapers that have libelled him. That Mrs. Leslie was ready and anxious to marry him before she sailed for America on Saturday the 12th instant, can be proved by documents in my possession. Why she should deny the fact, I do not know."

Kemble showed me three letters in his possession. One was from Registrar Herne to DeLeuville, dated July 11, and read as follows: "My Lord, I very sorry not to be able to accede to Mrs. Frank Leslie's request when she accompanied you yesterday, to give the notice about the marriage, because I find the superintendent disinclined to allow the wedding to be solemnized at 10 a. m. in the office here on Saturday. I am, my lord, your obedient servant,
FREDERICK HERNE, Registrar."

"That Mrs. Leslie made this request, Registrar Herne assures me is a fact about which he cannot be mistaken. Another letter was shown me, said he, from Mrs. Leslie, which was not dated, and written on plain paper. It reads: "I shall do as you agreed at 12 o'clock sharp. It is for you to think in this matter as well as me. Lovingly,
FLORENCE."

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

E. W. Johnston issues the following challenge: It seems quite evident to me that some of the would-be champion all-round athletes doubt my ability of ever being able to win or hold for fourteen years the all-round professional championship of the world. I have won more prizes in the same space of time than any two athletes in America, and for the benefit of those who doubt my ability and wish to test my athletic power, I issue my final defy, which stands open to the world, the match to be for $1000 a side and a gold medal emblematic of the title. In earnest of my good faith I have deposited $500 in the Dundas Dominion Bank as a forfeit, hoping some of these newspaper athletes will respond to my call, and have this much-talked of question settled. The following feats to form the contest.—Throwing 16 and 12 lb hammers, throwing 56 lbs. long and high, tossing the caber, wrestling, throwing 21 and 14 lb. stones, standing long and high jumps, running long and high jumps, hop, step and jump, hitch and kick, vaulting with pole, three standing jumps, 100 yards runs, 120 yards hurdle race, running hop, step and jump. The weight to be thrown from a fair stand. The athlete must stand at the mark and throw the weight without turning the body. I am willing for any reliable sporting man to set the standard in case of a match being arranged. Let me hear from some one who claims to be a champion general athlete of office.

HERE AND THERE.

Messrs. Godson and Findley, both travelers for Messrs. Richardson, Heatherbrae & Jones, will have a half mile swimming match at the Gorge to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock for glory.

ARRIVES IN ENGLAND.

THE MISSING LORD BOYLE RETURNS HOME.

He Was Boarding at Boise City—Learned From an Old Paper that he Was Being Looked for—No Reason for Keeping Himself Secluded.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The World's Liverpool cable says: The steamer Teutonic passed several miles outside Fastnet light in a thick fog and reached Liverpool to-day. Among the passengers was Viscount Boyle, the missing heir to the Earldom of Shannon. He is a small-sized, modest-looking young man, with decidedly the manners of the far west about him. The passengers found him to be an affable fellow. He went by the name of Mr. Boyle, and no one ever dreamed he was the long-missing Boyle. Rumor spread on ship two days out that a live lord was on board, but Boyle guarded his secret well. "I have no romantic story to tell," he said to the correspondent who interviewed him. "I have simply come to take possession of my family estates and to assume my duties as a British peer. I first learned of my father's death in an old copy of the San Francisco Chronicle which I picked up by chance in a hotel in Seattle, where I had gone to sell some horses. I had been running a small stock ranch about a hundred miles from Boise City and was surprised to find my brother advertising for me. I wrote to him in England but he had gone to New York again and my letter was forwarded to him. He wired me as soon as he could to arrange my affairs and come to New York and meet him. I did not remain in New York seven hours." "But why did you not write your relatives or make your whereabouts known through all these years?" "Well there really is no good reason. I always was a poor correspondent. I intended writing every week but I always put it off." In brief Lord Boyle's story is as follows: He went to America in 1882 to start a stock farm in Canada. He was a member of the Dominion Parliament for Fort McLeod. His brother, the same one who was advertising for him, was there in the same business, and at the same time. Early in 1887 the younger brother became tired of stock raising and went home but Lord Boyle determined to try his luck again in another part of the country. He first went to Tacoma and finally bought a farm and a few horses near Boise City.

Lord Boyle repeated several times that he had no motive in concealing his whereabouts, had no quarrel with his family, or alliance by marriage or otherwise, which made his seclusion desirable. He simply took a notion to keep quiet for a time and did so. Lord Boyle's brother, who listened to the conversation, confirmed this. "If he had any serious reason for hiding himself," said his brother, "I have not yet found it out, and he has not told me." "Why did you omit his title when he booked his name for sailing?" "To avoid publicity and being obliged to answer questions," was the answer. Lord Boyle said that though he knew nothing about New York or "Down East," he liked the far west and intended going back some time.

He went under the name of Mr. Boyle, always taking pains to conceal his title. From the time he settled there, three years ago, he never heard from or wrote any friends or relatives, and never read any newspaper. Three times in three years he journeyed to Seattle to sell horses. It was on his last visit he picked up a newspaper advertising for him. "My brother showed me a newspaper clipping," said Boyle, "saying I had been seen in Alaska, and that some United States marshal claims having seen me there. This is not true. I never was within a 1000 miles of Alaska. I know nothing about reports presuming me murdered. I never dreamed that my family was advertising for me."

Mystery Not Removed.

QUEBEC, July 31.—As a young lady was going down a ladder, suspended on the side of the wharf at Murray Bay into a boat which stood at the foot of the ladder, her feet slipped and she fell into the water. The son of Judge Bosse, who witnessed the accident, dived from the wharf after her. He swam to the surface a minute after with the young lady in his arms. Boats hastened to the rescue and both the young lady and her rescuer were brought ashore insensible.

Rate Advancing.

LONDON, July 31.—The Bank of England rate of discount has advanced to five per cent.

Why Seized?

MOZAMBIQUE, July 31.—It is announced here that a Portuguese naval lieutenant, named Coutlops, has seized the British African Lake Company's steamer James Stevenson, off Mozambique and sent the crew to Quilimane.

Dread Cholera.

LONDON, July 31.—A dispatch from Mecca reports that cholera is raging at that place. The deaths average eighty daily.

The Buenos Ayres Revolt.

LONDON, July 30.—The Times' Buenos Ayres dispatch says that every house was converted into a citadel on Thursday night. The insurgents state that they found the ammunition issued in the government stores empty instead of full, as they should have been, according to the official store book. This thwarted their plans, and together with their rolling up the tracks on the railroads to prevent the transportation of troops, and making the Minister of War a prisoner at the outset, succeeded, they say, for the failure of the popular cause. The exasperation against President Celman and his colleagues is said to be intense. It is feared that subject Celman resigns an attempt will be made upon his life. He has made a statement that only such a mutiny could show the people how little he thought of resigning. It is reported that the rebellious squadron has surrendered. Payment of all bills has been deferred one month. The minister of war has issued a bulletin pardoning the mutineers in the ranks, and declaring that 200,000 of the national guards stood ready to defend the country.

Royal Marriage.

VIENNA, July 31.—Arch Duchess Valerie, daughter of Emperor Francis Joseph, was married to-day to Arch Duke Francis, Salvator in the Parish church at Ischlin, in the presence of Emperor and Empress. Many court dignitaries from Vienna and Mayor and other functionaries of the town were present.

Many Killed and Wounded.

LONDON, July 31.—A Buenos Ayres despatch dated yesterday says by the recent bombardment of the city by the naval fleet, serious damage was done many buildings in the vicinity of Plaza Victoria. The dispatch also says that a thousand persons were killed and five thousand wounded. The shipping in the harbor was not injured.

Disorder in Samoa.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 31.—The steamship Lubeck has arrived here from Apia, Samoa. She brings advices to the effect that rumors were prevalent in Apia previous to her departure of disorders in a number of Samoan villages. In the opinion of Europeans these disorders point to a necessity of the three treaty powers forming a proper government for Samoa.

Floods in China.

SHANGHAI, July 31.—The plain around Tientsin was submerged by the recent overflow of the river Peiho. All roads in the flooded district were destroyed, crops ruined and all communication cut off for seven days. No news from Pekin has been received at Tientsin.

London News.

LONDON, July 30.—Intense interest is felt here in the political situation in the Argentine Republic. The bulk of the debt of the Argentine government, which amounts to $37,000,000 is held in England, besides a great deal in the railroads, which has been taken up by syndicates, financial houses, and private persons this year. Lord Revelstoke is on his way to arrange the business of the Barings with the Argentine government and the financial interests of the country are involved to an extraordinary extent in the affairs of that country. A financial collapse of the Columbian government would mean the ruin of thousands of people here.

Henry George, returning to America from his Australian tour, will arrive in England August 8th, and on the next day will address a meeting called in his honor, in Epping Forest. The gathering is expected to be an immense one, as nearly all the reform societies and labor organizations are taking an active part in preparations for the event.

The German East African Company's subscriptions have only been half taken and backers of the enterprise are much chagrined because of the lack of confidence on the part of the public thus revealed.

An explosion in fire damp occurred to-day in the Pelitzor coal mines at St. Etienne, France, causing the death of over 120 miners, and about 35 others were terribly burned.

The trouble between the Welsh Railway Company and their employees is nearing an end. The men have received not to accept the terms contained in the manifesto issued by the companies. These amounted to partial concessions, but the men will entertain nothing but the complete acceptance of their demands. Messrs. Burns and Tillett, famous for their successful conduct of the dockmen's and other strikers, are organizing the Welsh miners and dockmen and telling them in readiness to support the railway men if the latter actually quit work. Thus a general suspension of the most important industries in Wales is threatened unless the question at issue, regarding the men's wages and hours, can be amicably settled.

It has leaked out that the Right Hon. H. W. Smith, first leader of the treasury and leader of the government lords, fainted at a dinner party on Saturday. His health has been poor for some time and he recently announced that he would shortly retire from public life. But it was thought that he would remain in harness at least until the end of the present session. His friends are now greatly alarmed, however, and urge his immediate retirement, as it is evident that he is rapidly breaking down. It is quite probable, therefore, that the government's interests in parliament for the remainder of the session will be championed by Balfour, who is much the ablest detailer and parliamentarian on the treasury bench.

A feeling of depression prevails on the stock exchange. Argentine and Uruguayan issues, practically, are unsaleable and have declined from four to one per cent.

THE CAPITAL.

A Whole Budgetful of Gleanings from the Capital City.

OTTAWA, July 31.—In the police court to-day Donaldson, of the Governor-General's foot guards band, and employee of the militia department, was fined fifty dollars and costs for exposing his person from his room on Sparks street. The case was appealed.

NEW WESTMINSTER.

Hon. E. Dewdney in the Royal City—Two Indians Found Guilty of Manslaughter.

NEW WESTMINSTER, July 31.—Hon. Edgar Dewdney, Minister of the Interior, accompanied by his private secretary, Mr. Nesbitt, arrived in this city [illegible] Chief Alexander and Crazy Annie, charged with the murder of Henry [illegible] at Yale, were last spring, [illegible] to the supreme court, [illegible] Mr. Justice Montague. [illegible] the evidence, the jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter against the prisoners. [illegible]

FRANCE AND THE BRANDY.

Imitation Martell—How the Counterfeiter Was Punished.

The criminal court of Bordeaux has recently condemned to one year's imprisonment, together with a fine of 1000 francs, a Frenchman named Rapeau, who had established himself in Barcelona, Spain, and produced counterfeit case Martell brandy in large quantities. The imitation of the Martell was so perfect in all details as to labels, capsules, corks, and brands on the cases, that it was impossible to detect the counterfeit articles from the genuine Martell. The low prices at which the bogus Martell brandy was sold, aroused suspicion, which resulted in the fraud being discovered, and its perpetrator, Rapeau being extradited, brought to France, tried and convicted. The circumstance of Rapeau's profiting counterfeit brandy in Spain, caused Mons. Paul de Cassagnac, a member of the French parliament, to consider the Cognac industry of France, and in a lengthy communication to a newspaper l'Autorite, he reviewed the brandy product of the country in such terms as gave great umbrage to the cognac producing interests, as the writer misrepresented and minified the products of the vineyards to such an extent as to create general distrust among foreign buyers of brandy, as to the ability of France to supply the demand, and to induce suspicion that a spurious article would be furnished. Mons Amedee Noix, Manager of the Central Society of Vineyard Proprietors, Cognac, replies to Paul de Cassagnac in Le Progres, a journal devoted to the vineyard interests, and in several able articles, supported by statistical information, refutes his statements, and accuses him of being not only unpatriotic but also either uninformed or untruthful; and says that such statements, if allowed to go abroad uncontradicted, would be most damaging to the cognac interests of la belle France, especially when uttered by one like Paul de Cassagnac, who has the distinction of being a member of the French Parliament. Mons. Noix recapitulates the productions of the several vineyards over a number of years, and shows that notwithstanding the ravages to the vines by the "phylloxera," there was still sufficient product of genuine and good brandy to meet the demand, and the product is shown to be on the increase. Consumers of this leading article of French commerce may therefore feel happy in the knowledge that there is, and will be, obtainable, a continuous supply of the genuine "eau de vie."

Mons. Amedee Noix, Manager of the Central Society of the Central Society of Vineyard Proprietors above referred to, is a large shipper of brandies to this port, and is represented in this Province by A. B. Gray, Esq.

DOWN WITH LOTTERY.

United States President Harrison Speaks his Mind.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 31.—President Harrison to-day sent the following message to congress:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:—The recent attempt to secure a charter from North Dakota for a lottery company, the pending effort to obtain from the state of Louisiana a renewal of charter of the Louisiana lottery and the establishment of one or more lottery companies at Mexican towns on our border, have served the good purpose of calling public attention to the evils in the past of these companies. If the efforts of lotteries were confined to the states that gave the companies corporate powers and license to conduct the business, the citizens of other states being powerless to apply legal remedies, they might clear themselves of the responsibility by the use of such moral agencies as were within their reach, but such is not the case.

"The people of all the states are debauched and defrauded. The vast sums of money offered to the states for charter are drawn from the people of the United States, and the general government, through the mail system, is made an effective and profitable medium of intercourse between the lottery company and its victims. The use of the mails is quite as essential to the companies as a state license. It would be practically impossible for the companies to exist if the public mails were once effectually closed against these companies and against the prostitution of an agency only intended to serve the purposes of legitimate trade and its intercourse.

"It is not necessary, I am sure, for me to attempt to portray the robbery of private and public morals which are necessary incidents of these lottery schemes. The national capital has become the sub-headquarters of the Louisiana Lottery Company, and its numerous agents and attorneys are conducting here a business involving probably a larger use of the mails than that of any legitimate business enterprise in the District of Columbia. There seems to be good reason to believe that the corrupting touch of these agents has been felt by the clerks in the service, and by some of the police officers of the district.

"Severe and effective legislation should be promptly enacted to enable the postoffice department to purge the mails of all letters, newspapers and circulars relating to the business. The letter of the Postmaster-General, which I transmit herewith, points out the inadequacy of the existing statute, and suggests legislation that would be effective. It may also be necessary to so regulate the carrying of letters by express companies as to prevent the use of these agencies to maintain communication between lottery companies and their agents or customers in other cities. It does not seem possible that there can be any division of sentiment as to the propriety of closing the mails against these companies, and I therefore venture to express the hope that such proper powers as are necessary to that end will be given to the postoffice department."

The letter of the Postmaster-General referred to by the President calls attention to the inefficiency of the present law, and recommends passage of an anti-lottery bill recently reported to the House.

Alaskan Notes.

PORT TOWNSEND, July 29.—By the steamer Queen, which arrived to-day from Alaska, advices are brought that Lieutenant R. E. Coontz and a squad of marines left Sitka on the 12th to quell a disturbance that had arisen on Sitka bay, Peril straits, between white men and Indians over fishing gaulers. The Indians claimed the exclusive right to fish in the bay, which is five or six miles long. The Indians were arrested and brought to Sitka.

Three Indians were drowned near Sitka about July 1 while out seal hunting in canoes.

The cutter Bear left Onualaska on June 18 for a cruise in the adjacent waters, with the intention of not permitting any trifling from any poachers of fur seals which she may encounter.

Queer world! Queer people! Here are men and women by thousands suffering from all sorts of diseases, bearing all manners of pain, spending their all on physicians and "getting no better, but rather worse," when right at hand there's a remedy which says it can help them because it's helped thousands like them. "Another patent medicine advertisement," you say. Yes—but not of the ordinary sort. The medicine is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and it's different from the ordinary nostrums in this:

It does what it claims to do, or it costs you nothing!

The way is this: You pay your druggist $1.00 for a bottle. You read the directions, and you follow them. You get better, or you don't. If you do, you buy another bottle, and perhaps another. If you don't get better, you get your money back. And the queer thing is that so many people are willing to be sick when the remedy's so near at hand.

A BY-LAW.

Fixing Special Rate to be Levied in Respect of the "By-Law Authorizing the Construction of the Waterworks for the City of Victoria, B. C., 1875."

WHEREAS BY THE CORPORATION OF Victoria Waterworks Act, 1883, it is provided that the said Act should not have any force or effect until the Municipal Council of the said City of Victoria should pass a By-Law authorizing the construction of the said waterworks, which By-Law they were thereby empowered to pass.

And whereas on the 26th day of March, 1875, the said Council passed a By-Law authorizing the construction of waterworks for the City of Victoria, B. C., 1875, whereby it was enacted that for the purpose of constructing the said Waterworks and other the purposes in the said Act mentioned or referred to it should be lawful for the Corporation of the City of Victoria to issue debentures of the said Corporation of the City of Victoria to be called "Waterworks Debentures" for a sum of money not exceeding $90,000.

And whereas for the purpose of providing a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures and the interest on same it was enacted by said By-Law that the said Council should for the purposes aforesaid raise annually such a sum as might be necessary to pay the interest upon and provide a sinking fund to meet the whole of such debentures in full, and should order a rate for that purpose on all real estate and improvements thereon to be annually imposed and levied in each and every year to pay the principal and interest on such debentures.

And whereas it has been found by computation that the rate hereinafter mentioned will be sufficient for the purposes aforesaid and that it is expedient that such rate be levied and imposed.

Therefore be it enacted by the Mayor and Aldermen of the Corporation of the City of Victoria as follows:

From and after the final passage of this By-Law the rate to be levied and imposed for the purpose of raising annually a sum necessary to pay the interest upon and provide a sinking fund to meet the whole of the debentures before recited debentures shall be 11-1000 of one per cent., which said rate shall be annually levied, imposed and collected on all real estate and improvements thereon within the corporate limits of the City of Victoria.

This By-Law may be cited as "The By-Law Rating a Rate under the By-Law Authorizing the Construction of Waterworks, 1875."

Passed the Municipal Council the 9th day of July, A.D. 1890.

Reconsidered and finally passed in Council the 23rd day of July, A.D. 1890.

THE LITTLE BROKEN STONE.

And the end of the little broken stone is not yet. In his progress southward from the Fountain he has reached a point between Johnson and Fisgard streets, and a long-suffering public rises to ask when the street roller may be expected to put in an appearance. But in discussing the little broken stone, we need not confine ourselves to places. We will simply assert as a general proposition that the streets of Victoria are not as they should be. The effect of dumping broken stone, whether as is now being done on Douglas street, or promiscuously as on street corners to fill up slight depressions, has been literally to make our streets more stony than country roads. When a depression is filled up at a street corner or elsewhere, the quantity required not exceeding a cart load or two, and hence not justifying the use of the roller, a man should be sent to tamp the stone down as best he can, and over all a light covering of gravel should be spread. This proceeding would not cost much, and would save a deal of annoyance. However, this feature of the business is inconsequential compared with the roadways which have been filled with broken stone and left to be beaten down by passing teams. What is the consequence? Some of our streets are nothing more than trails, and teams passing each other must run two wheels into the yet loose rock. As an excuse for this state of things we are told that the roller is too busy crushing rock. Buy another roller, then, or stop rock crushing. On the Esquimalt road, our principal drive, we have more barbarism. The Esquimalt road is a disgrace to the managers of it. If we are going to set ourselves up as a summer resort, drag of our drives, and all that sort of thing, the least we can do is to put the roads in a condition that teams can pass each other without being compelled to take to a rock heap.

We are satisfied that the condition of things of which we complain are the result of pure slackness, and for that reason we hope that it will not be necessary for us to treat the matter in detail, as we certainly shall unless steps are taken to mitigate what taxpayers, rate-payers and visitors have declared to be a nuisance.

"SWEATING."

FRANK LESLIE'S for July 26 has an illustrated article entitled "my experience as a sweater." "Passing along," says the writer, "any of our great commercial thoroughfares and you will see displayed in show windows suits of clothes for sale ranging in value from $5 to $10. How can they do it? you ask." The writer then proceeds to relate how it is done. Disguising herself as a needy person she applied for work. She found several places where she could have gone to work at once "finishing" coats, vests, and pants at ten and twelve cents each, with a chance of earning 50 or 60 cents a day if she worked steadily and was an expert needlewoman, but the atmosphere was so vile that she did not dare take the risk. Finally she went to work for a party as a "baster" on pants on condition that she worked two weeks with out pay in order to learn to do well what she might have learned in three or four hours. One worker was a girl of 15 years, who had been a "baster" since she was twelve, and who was now able to earn four dollars a week provided she worked from 7 a. m., until 6 p. m. There were others, however, who did not earn as much although equally as skillful. "Finishing" work on pants in large shops at home and for prices ranging from 25 cents down to 12½ cents per pair is shown people. An expert worker has all she can do to finish six pairs by working from early morning till late at night. To sum up it appears that the maximum wage earnings of the operatives in these establishments never exceeds $4 per week, and the writer pertinently asks: "How far do you think two or four dollars a week will go towards paying rent, buying food and clothing, etc."

The law of supply and demand regulates values. If there were fewer applicants for work in these clothes finishing establishments, the demand for cheap clothing remaining the same, wage values would of necessity advance. But the question arises: to what extent may we trade off the necessities of our fellows? Is there any law, human or divine, which by any manner or means can be stretched to mention the "sweating system," or any system in which the wage-earner is unable, despite long hours and industrious and skillful application, to make a decent living. It seems to us that in cases of the kind in question, legislation might be successfully employed. If clothes manufacturers are protected from European competition, why may not labor be protected from the rapacity of the employers. Of course we understand the difficulties attending any effort to determine what it is worth to make a suit of clothes. That, however, a law might not say that fifteen cents is altogether too small a sum for "finishing" a pair of pants nobody but a clothes manufacturer will dispute. If the law should declare that it was worth 25 cents to "finish" a pair of pants, and that it was worth proportionately more to make a coat, the public would in no sense be injured, while something like a hundred thousand working women in the city of New York alone would be enormously benefitted. Somebody is getting rich out of this sweating system. We hold up our hands in horror at the thought of chattel slavery. We listen to STANLEY'S anxious appeal to the world to break up the African slave trade. The slave always is given enough to eat and to wear. The slave of our industrial system does not get enough of either. Philanthropists and reformers of all sorts will do well to cease their clap-trap about the African slave trade and the Christianization of barbarians until they have reformed far more hideous abuses which exist under their very noses.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

All great men have their faults, but you need not flatter yourself on that account.

Any fool can tell what the world needs, but it takes something of a man to reform himself.

In announcing the discontinuance of Bystander with the close of the year, Mr. GOLDWIN SMITH says the special object for which it was brought out in connection with commercial questions has been answered. The statement that Mr. SMITH is going to transfer to another paper is not correct. He wishes to be free for work of a different kind.

The Canadian customs for the year ending June 30 have been made up. The exports reach a grand total of $94,389,445, as compared with $86,014,580 last year, an increase of $8,375,565. This is larger than any year since 1882, and, in fact, has only been exceeded three times previous to since confederation, viz., in 1881, 1882 and 1883. It will be several weeks before the final returns of imports are known, but the value of goods entered for home consumption in one year, exclusive of British Columbia, was $107,989,470, as against $105,465,448, an increase of two millions and a half. The duty collected was $22,814,963, an increase of $75,722.

MACAULEY'S fancy of a New Zealander sketching the ruins of St. Paul is not more improbable than the conversion to Islamism of the Christians of India. But yet the telegraph informs us that the latter has already been brought about to a limited extent. A Calcutta dispatch says that the Mohammedan preachers in India have aroused themselves to unusual activity of late and are making many converts among the Europeans. The converts from Christianity to Islam are not men of position, but the incident is both striking and novel. This dispatch also states that a Mohammedan preacher is preparing to visit England and America on a missionary tour, having become emboldened by the accessions to the fold in India.

On the Liberal leadership question Bystander says: "BLAKE'S deliverance about the Liberal leadership, so his critics have not failed to notice, is ambiguous. If it means a refusal, it is of this nature. Nothing was ever more certainly proved by experience than that Mr. BLAKE'S gifts are those of a forensic advocate, not those of a political leader. When a man of great promise has failed there is a natural desire to give him a second trial, but sympathy bestowed on an unfortunate general must be extended to the unfortunate army. It is difficult to believe that under such leaders the leaders can hope to turn defeat into victory. To reconcile British and Protestant Liberals to French and Catholic leadership, the leaders must at least bring a substantial accession of force. But LAURIER brings with him no such accession. If he leads French Liberalism, it is as a man leads a wild horse by clinging to his tail. CARTWRIGHT, who is now practically the head in Ontario of Liberalism, may not be an ideal leader, but at all events he is a strong and a man. He knows his own mind; he is a political, not a forensic speaker, and he is perfectly master of questions upon which battle at the coming elections will be joined. LAURIER'S character is such as to make it comparatively easy for Sir RICHARD to maintain with him relations which might be awakened if he were not so manifestly in his temper were he to be paid. Unless a known Liberal leader should appear the Liberals, better remain as they are. If, however, they have made up their minds, as at present appears, to an alliance with Redpath and Dewdney with socialism, their choice of a leader is not of much importance.

Not the least remarkable sign of the times in the United States is the movement among the farmers of the Middle and Western States for a radical reconstruction of the machinery of government. Farmers' alliances have been formed all over the country, and the platforms adopted by them are everywhere much the same. They demand the abolition of alien ownership of land, the restriction of immigration, the abrogation of the national banking system, the control of railways and telegraphs by the Government, free coinage of silver, reduction of railway fares and freight rates, election of President of the United States and senators by direct vote of the people, resumption of unearned land grants to the Government, and reduction of the tariff. These drastic reforms are demanded with a vigor and determination which show that the farmers are alive to the abuses that have grown up under the tree of liberty. Besides these reforms in national affairs, they also demand a number of changes in state government not less sweeping. It is not their declared intention, however, to form a farmers' party, but to force their ideas on the old organizations. From the programme thus presented it is evident that it is against economical, not political, conditions of oppression that the farmers are rebelling. Still it is not less evident that the political change must precede the economical.

POLITICS AND EXAMINERS OF TEACHERS.

TO THE EDITOR:—As Mr. J. N. Muir is a graduate of a Canadian university, and Mr. Pope informed him that the examiners were satisfied as to his knowledge of teaching, and as the only other requisite is a certificate of good moral character, satisfactory to the examiners, does it not follow that the certificate of moral character was not satisfactory to the examiners, since they decided unanimously to refuse him a teacher's certificate. As Mr. Muir presented two certificates of moral character, one of which was signed by his pastor certifying that he was a member of his church and a teacher in his Sabbath school, it follows that these are not satisfactory proof of good moral character to the board of examiners, two of whom are clergymen.

Mr. Muir intends taking the case into court, if necessary to obtain his certificate, and thus these gentlemen may have the opportunity of stating what is a satisfactory testimonial of moral character to them and also of explaining what unseen influence (if any) led them to refuse his certificate although the duty for which they were appointed and paid by the people's money was to examine candidates and grant certificates on the above conditions.

As the school trustees of English, Lulu Island, were holding their school for Mr. Muir, subject to his getting his certificate, is it not evident that some change in the School Act is necessary.

JUSTICE.

THE MINER'S STRIKE.

TO THE EDITOR.—In times of strikes most people are apt to have a strong sympathy for one side or the other, and are too apt to let their prejudices bias their judgment. We require coolness to look at the causes of strikes before we can hope to arrive at correct conclusions. Some people honestly believe that the company at Wellington are not to blame for the present strike, and other people are equally honest in believing that the company are altogether in the wrong. Others are of opinion that neither the company or the men are to blame, but that the difficulty springs from an inherent wrong in our social system. I don't blame either the company or the men. Our present system produces inequality among the people, and discontent among the masses. At the time of the late Hon. Robert Dunsmuir's death, it was estimated by some that his fortune amounted to the vast sum of $15,000,000. This princely fortune was amassed within fifteen years. Each year $1,000,000 accumulated; each day (allowing 300 days in each year for business) $3,333.33½. We will say that $3.00 a day is good wages for a miner to make, and that he is able to work 300 days in each year. By living savingly he could lay aside each day $5, or $1,500 a year. Let us see how long it would take them to save $15,000,000. In 100 years he would save $150,000, a long distance behind Mr. Dunsmuir when he had saved only 15 years. It would require exactly 10,000 years to save $15,000,000 at $5 a day, allowing 300 days in each year. I have purposely eliminated the item of interest in these calculations, for the obvious reason that the late Mr. Dunsmuir had no money to invest at the time he commenced to save his $15,000,000, and if interest were considered it would prove that his savings were reduced by interest paid on borrowed money. The miners who have risked their lives in taking wealth from the bowels of the earth, wealth that was deposited there ages ago for the use of mankind, believe that there is something wrong in the system that gives to them a bare living, that forces them to live in hovels, and gives to others the major part of the wealth made by them.

The Messrs. Dunsmuir are no more to blame for the present system that produces these unjust inequalities among mankind than the poorest man who works in their mines. But when we look beneath the surface, we must feel that there is something cruel and relentless in our system. It is damned! It can't long stand. The miners who have families have been thrown out of their homes into the street. What does it matter if some sicken and die, people are in plenitude; the world is full; the sacred rights of property must be maintained; the law must be obeyed though men go idle, women starve and helpless babes die from neglect and exposure. Talk of hell! Can it be more than the torments of the damned to poverty?

HIGH WALLS.

TO THE EDITOR.—The beauty of Victoria's gardens has been talked of in places far from here, and while traveling in this part of the world I determined to see for myself the oft described picture. I do not think the same has been over-drawn, as many of the gardens are veritable fairy spots, but one feature I have noticed which I cannot quite understand, and that is that many of the owners of really beautiful grounds build around them a high board fence which shuts off the view of outsiders and makes the buildings thus protected have the appearance of private insane asylums or prisons. This exclusiveness in this respect of Victorians to me seems to be a feature peculiar of the city, and not one I have noticed elsewhere. Hoping that low hedges and light iron fences will be used to replace the unsightly board ones I remain, sir,

Coal Winter for Coal Dealers.

"There will be more hardship in the coal trade this spring than ever before," a what a dealer in black diamonds says. "The loss on the supposed failure of the hop crop will amount to naught as compared with that of the coal trade," he continued. "It is a gray haired knowledge now that this winter has been the mildest in the recollection of the oldest inhabitant. Few people have stopped to think of the savings to poor families on that account, and the consequent loss to coal dealers. I mention poor families because it is from them that the greatest profit accrues.

"People of means purchase their fuel in the summer, when the market is down to the last notch. Poor families can't do this, as small portion of them being obliged to purchase their coal supply from the corner grocery at so much per pail or bushel, as occasion demands. Each winter for the last five years I sold between 70,000 and 80,000 tons of coal. This winter my output will not reach 30,000, and from present appearances I'm afraid it will run below 25,000 tons. I have had a dozen horses and wagons idle all this season, there being nothing for them to do. I feel sorry for some of the companies that have secured a small sized corner on the market. They'll come out the wrong end of the game."—New York Mail and Express.

Trailing Arbutus in March.

"What! Trailing arbutus the 4th of March!" exclaimed Mrs. Blaine when a little colored boy held several branches of the pretty pink blossoms up towards her as she alighted from her landau.

"Ten cents a bunch, lady," said the ebony youngster, not knowing who his customer was.

"Dat was big blossom," said he, as he went off flourishing but turning a silver dollar over and over in his yellow palm. "I'm gwine get more dose 'butuses an' hang roun' dat corner."

The fragrant little spring flower grows abundantly along the Potomac hills, and the colored people know its pretty hiding places well. To them mistletoe, sassafras, holly, arbutus are like raspberries and blackberries in their season, and they earn many an honest dollar gathering them. But they never found the arbutus so early before.—Washington Letter.

The Author of "Lorna Doone."

R. D. Blackmore, known the world over as the author of "Lorna Doone," continues to write with all his old time assiduity and with much of his old time force. He is a brisk old gentleman, and as a sort of avocation or amusement he cultivates grapes and fruits in his large gardens in one of the suburbs of London. Some time ago he discovered that one of his gardeners had purloined and sold $20 worth of pears, and the old gentleman has been in a condition of great mental perturbation ever since. "Lorna Doone" has reached its eighteenth edition. And everybody who reads it wonders whether it were possible for any man to be strong enough to pull the muscle out of another man's arm. Blackmore has received thousands of letters on this subject.—Eugene Field's London Letter.

A Bogus Floater.

Here is an item from several exchanges which is somewhat peculiar viewed in the light of the fact that The St. Louis Republic did not exist in 1880: A corked bottle that evidently had floated about 2,000 miles was picked up in the river near Points Cooper, La., last week. It was opened and the contents found to be a slip of paper bearing these words: "Thrown over at St. Paul, Minn., 15th of April, 1880, by R. C. Libby. Finder please advertise where it was found and what date and much oblige yours truly. Send this paper to The St. Louis Republic to advertise." The paper was dry and was [illegible] not in the least defaced.—Chicago Herald.

Big Advance in the Price of Land.

Governor Buckner, of Kentucky, has sold the Ashland block, a portion of his Chicago property, to A. J. Alexander, of Woodford county, Ky., for $600,000. More than half a century ago Maj. Kingsbury bought the ground occupied by the block for $800. It was inherited by his daughter, who was the first wife of Governor Buckner. Mrs. Buckner died many years ago, but Governor Buckner remarried a short time ago, his second wife being a Richmond (Va.) belle.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Hardware, combs and artists' [illegible] at Deloe's.

There is a shop in San Francisco which keeps in a show case an abalone shell. It is large, about the size of a man's two outspread hands, and in the centre a mass of pearly accretions takes the shape of a baby's shoe. The story is that years ago a little child in Marin County wandered down to the beach, slipped in between the rocks and was caught by the cruel mussel, which closed against the tiny shoe and gripped it close to the rock. Years after, when every one but the mother had forgotten the story, and she sat by the fireside with grown-up daughters about her, some abalone fisher found the curious shell and put it on exhibition in the window of his cabin. There the mother saw it, and hastening forward, brought the other little shoe, which she had found cast up by the tide on that dreadful day when she sought up and down the beach in vain for her child. They placed it beside the wrinkled shell, and everyone present uttered a cry of surprise, so startling was the resemblance. Afterward a chemist cut deftly into the bright nacre of the mass and found traces of the leather wrapped in its closing folds. There the lost baby's little shoe lies hidden and changed to pearl.

THE POWDER MAGAZINE.

The Dominion Government Wants the City to Pay for Removal.

The Dominion Government in its fullness of heart has agreed to allow of the removal from the public park of the powder magazine, provided the city of Victoria will pay the bill. Legal authorities state that the Dominion Government have a certain amount of control over the park lands of the Dominion, and it is barely possible that the city cannot compel the government to remove that unsightly and dangerous powder box from its abiding place by the shores of Cheakamus lake.

Some days ago Col. Holmes had a talk with Mayor Grant about the matter and the former said he would do all he could to have the magazine taken away. City Surveyor Leach has been making an estimate of the cost of the work and last night submitted to the board of aldermen the estimates, which states that for the sum of $999.70 the building and its contents could be removed and re-erected near where the forces now make their headquarters. The aldermen were told that the government would consent to the removal, provided this amount was paid, but as one man the aldermen rose and in no uncertain way recorded themselves as of the opinion that for a piayanish and money grabbing government the Dominion Government of Canada took the cake. While anxious that the powder magazine be removed, they did not think it right to vote the city's money to do the work, and Ald. Wilson asked very pertinently who gave the Dominion Government the right in the first place to put the objectionable erection there. He always understood that Sir James Douglas gave the land to the city for park purposes, and that the Dominion had nothing to do with it. He thought that while the Government were so ready to get every cent through the customs at this port, they could surely spare enough to remove a menace to the lives of the citizens.

And so the matter stands. The city won't remove the magazine and the Dominion Government officials don't care, so the unsightly pile of brick which contains powder enough to blow the whole of Beacon Hill into a hole in the ground, will probably remain in statu quo unless some fortunate bolt of lightning happens to hit it when nobody is around and thus spread the bricks and mortar around the vicinity in such infinitesimal quantities that even the sharp eye of a Dominion official would fail to find them.

A PAIR OF JACKS

Amuse a Large Audience Last Evening at the Victoria.

A large and appreciative audience greeted the "Pair of Jacks" at the Victoria last night. The play which is a bright, clean, farcical comedy, is based on the idea of the "Two Dromios," and Mr. Donnelly, the author, modestly divides the credit for it with one William Shakespeare, who flourished before these days of farce comedies and topical songs. The performance assuredly made a most gratifying hit, the audience being convulsed with laughter from the first appearance of Prof. Quoer with his aches and pains to the closing scene. There were bright songs, lively dances, and original musical specialities. Mr. R. G. Knowles as Judge Jack, Mr. Sol. Aiken as Prof. Quoer, and Mr. Wm. J. Russell as Dr. Jack were each exceedingly funny in their respective parts. Miss Mollie Thompson's dancing created a sensation especially the "cart wheel" turn at the end.

Mr. Julius Whitmark's baritone solos were among the features of the evening, each member receiving a hearty encore. His closing selection, "That is Love," is one of the finest baritone solos ever heard here. A brilliant future is in store for Mr. Witmark. Miss Winifred Johnson's banjo playing is a revelation. Nothing in the way of operatic or sentimental music seems too difficult for her. She dances gracefully to her own accompaniment.

Each member of the company deserves special mention if space permitted, as it is we can only say the show is a first class one, replete with humor, good music and laughable situations.

NOT TO AMERICANS.

A Prominent Sealer Refuses to Give Information to a Reporter.

Last evening Capt. J. G. Cox, the well-known sealing man of this port, was interviewed by a representative of a Seattle paper, who had been sent over here to get pointers on the sealing matters. Captain Cox said he was sorry, but unless the reporter from the other side comes here vouched for by some responsible and well known business man, no further information will be given. This course, Captain Cox said, was adopted on account of the character of the reports recently published in an American paper, purporting to be an interview with several sealing men, but which was mostly imaginative. While aware that most reporters were gentlemen, the captain was constrained to take this precaution, as one lately here had proved himself not a gentleman, besides being a prevaricator.

Captain Cox is one of the most genial of men, and has always been found by the reporters of the Victoria papers to be most ready to give such information as he could in reference to the sealing question which might interest the public, but, as he remarked, he does not care to be misrepresented. Concerning the reports published in the papers here, the captain spoke very highly of them, stating that the reports were correct and not in any way exaggerated, and referred the Seattle newsman to the columns of the dailies here for news. The Seattle reporter is unfortunate in having come from a part of the world where the universal newspaper nuisance exists.

Of Interest to Builders.

Realizing the fact that there was an unceasing demand for lumber Messrs. Lee & Co., recently started a lumber and general commission business at Janion's wharf. They are the agents for the Moses saw mill, which mill by the way received last week the largest boom of logs ever sent into Vancouver. The Moses company are launching two new scows to-day, which will be devoted entirely to supplying the Victoria trade through their agents Messrs. Lee & Co.

Sloop Detained.

A sloop called the Harriet, from Blaine, Wash., Capt. Oliver, was detained by the customs officers to-day for not giving a proper account of herself. No record of her being a British built vessel has as yet come forward, and the law in that respect is decided in making it imperative that a small ship's nationality must be as well known as a larger one. It is claimed by the owners that the craft is British built, but no proof has been forthcoming, and as a consequence she is held to await an explanation. She is a vessel of about five tons, is thirty feet long by ten feet beam, and looks a good sailor. No contraband goods were found on her.

Dutiable Packages.

Some misunderstanding has arisen over the interpretation of the customs order in reference to the duty on packages. The following extract from the order might be a guide: "That all packages in which goods are commonly placed for home consumption, and every package being the first receptacle or covering, and enclosing goods for the purpose of sale, are, whether they contain free goods or not, subject to duty on their market value." In other words the box on cigars may be subject to duty while the case around several such boxes is not, or the bottles around beer may be subject to duty while the package in which the bottles is packed is not dutiable.

Smells.

Hard by the Jewish Synagogue the air is redolent of a perfume affording strong circumstantial evidence that the sidewalk is the mausoleum of a defunct dog or cat, or if not either of these some organic substance which smells and that not of the kind which health doctors put down as conducive to longevity. Nor is the vicinity of the synagogue alone the only place in the city where smells abound. Off the main business thoroughfares of the city, the pedestrian during an evening's walk will be surprised at the number of streets which afford smells scarcely less redolent than those of Chinatown, but more dangerous because those of the Chinese quarter are largely the effect of the system they employ in the preservation of food edibles and of their abominable style of cookery. Our health officers have a scent in the matter of Chinatown for which we give them credit. They now want to turn their noses in the direction of the Caucasian quarter. We do not say that these smells are absolutely dangerous, but they are unpleasant, not to say suggestive of what would happen in this city were it subject to "heated terms" as are cities in the east. We apprehend that these smells are to some extent unavoidable. Animals about to die always seek a spot where they can shuffle off this mortal coil unobserved, and what better place could they find than the seclusion afforded underneath a sidewalk?

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

A Lengthy Meeting—A Great Deal of Work Laid Over.

The regular weekly meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held at the City Hall last evening. Present His Worship the Mayor in the chair and the full board. Routine business being completed, Clerk DeWier read the following

COMMUNICATIONS.

From D. W. Higgins president of the street railway company in reference to stringing of guard wires over their main trolley wire, and enclosing a report from Mr. Whitney, their superintendent.—Referred to electric light committee and city electrician.

From John Hilbert, Mayor of Nanaimo, thanking the board for tests sent to the evicted miners.—Filed.

From Thos. A. Bryden asking for city water at his residence on North road.—Referred to water committee.

From superintendent of street railway line asking for street lines on Pandora street.—Granted.

From J. P. Walls for Mr. Matthews, asking for copy of letter written by P. Larkin.—Request granted.

From John Parmenter, asking for part of Yates street for building purposes.—Granted.

From James O'Neil, soliciting orders for machinery.—Referred to committee.

From C. Williams asking for portion of Johnson street for building purposes.—Granted.

From A. De Cosmos, offering to the board the church property, corner of Broad and Pandora streets, which could be used as the site for a public market. Would either sell or lease property, or conduct a public market there.

Ald. Vigelius thought the matter of a public market should be thoroughly considered, and he moved that the communication be tabled for further consideration.—His motion was carried.

From J. C. Keene, sanitary engineer, in reference to Mr. Hering's report on sewerage plans, and pointing out several imperfections in it, and also contending that the plans of "K. M. H." were of a better kind than the one recommended.

After a very lengthy discussion, during which the history of the sewerage matters of Victoria was pretty extensively explained, had ended, Mayor Grant explained the facts of the case, which were to the effect that an eminent and well-known sanitary engineer had passed favorably on the plan submitted by Mr. Mohun. Mr. Hering was certainly a man whose opinion was worth something, and as the board had adopted the advice of Mr. Hering, he thought no retraction should be made. No doubt it was annoying to the unsuccessful applicants to have their plans rejected, and they had the sympathy of the speaker, but all things being considered, the acts of the board in the matter should be sustained, and the matter should pushed to completion and the sewers built.

On motion the communication was received and referred to the enlarged committee on sewerage.

From W. R. Wilson, asking for city water.—Referred to committee.

From the city barristers, enclosing copy of by-laws.—Filed.

PETITIONS.

From Thomas Earle and 186 others, in reference to the establishment of a public market, and asking that such a market be established.—Tabled for further consideration by the board.

From Roland Lee and A. C. West, asking the support and countenance of the board to an art exhibition, to be held here soon.—Tabled.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

A communication from the secretary of the Board of Trade, laid over from last week, was tabled.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

A notice of motion from Alderman Harrison, asking leave for the introduction of a by-law to raise $200,000 for sewerage purposes was read.

Another notice by the same alderman, in reference to the sale of James Bay lots was also read.

A notice by Ald. Goodacre in reference to the appointment of three park commissioners was also read.

NEW BY-LAWS.

A batch of by-laws dealing with the reduction of the rate of taxation for several loans were read a second time and passed, as were two other by laws dealing with the sale of liquors to minors, and for the sale of the city property on Yates street now used as a fire-hall.

REMOVAL OF POWDER MAGAZINE.

A communication from the city surveyor in reference to the removal of the powder magazine, showing cost of removal of same, was submitted. It showed that to do the work of removing it and taking the same to Macaulay Point would cost $986.70.

The board as one man said the magazine could stop there. The great liberality of the Dominion Government was [illegible]

REPORTS.

From the police committee, re shooting of an Indian prisoner by Constable Allen, and stating that the trouble had evidently been caused by a lack of a jail yard fence. A recommendation that the Supt. of Police be allowed two weeks leave on account of ill health, was also embodied in the report, which was adopted.

From the water committee, in reference to tests on the water mains, that a lowering of pressure may be accounted for.—Report adopted.

DUST AT BEACON HILL.

Ald. Smith spoke of the dust nuisance at Beacon Hill on Sundays, and recommended that the watering cart sprinkle the streets there late on Saturday afternoon.—His suggestion was referred [illegible]

Will Appeal the Case.

J. P. Walls, the lawyer for Gibson, the young man sent up for one month for assaulting a man named Fopp, appeared in the police court and asked his honor to let Gibson out on bail as he intended to appeal the case at the next sitting of the county court. His Honor allowed the bail, the prisoner in $300, and two sureties of $150 each.

Living in Hope.

Such has been the case for a length of time with a large number of this community, daily looking for and enquiring after the arrival of our large stock on the way. To such, Hastie & Erskine have pleasure in announcing that another cargoad of elegant Bedroom Suits, Extension Tables, Bookcases, Sideboards, etc., have arrived, and that they will be sold CHEAP for CASH at 92 Government street.

Water Finding.

A finder of wells and underground streams by the use of the magical witch hazel has offered his services to the Provincial Government in connection with the artesian well boring operations which are to be conducted by the Government in the interior. It is said that the water finder has never made a mistake which is more than the Government can claim in respect to its well-boring experiments. As the Government is conducted on the chance principle it perhaps would not be a bad idea to secure the assistance of the water-rod man to find the artesian well on Mr. Martin's farm which has already cost several thousands and got only a shallow hole in the ground.

Sick and Tired.

A new phase of the sewerage question cropped up at the meeting of the board of aldermen last night, when it was proposed by Ald. McKillican that the question of the award for the best plan be reconsidered. It was pointed out by several other aldermen as well as the Mayor, that the matter had already been disposed of. Ald. Kelly made a brief but comprehensive speech when he rose to the question. Said he, "For years and years has this sewerage business been a bother. I have been three years on the committee myself, and we are as far off as ever. Several thousand dollars for plans and experts and reports have been spent, and now you want to still further to delay the work. For heaven's sake let us get a start, and not bring up any more such feeling subjects, as we shall all be dead and forgotten before the sewers are built. For my part I am sick and tired of the whole business, and would like to get clear of it."

Guard Wires.

A report from the electric street car superintendent was read at the board of aldermen meeting last night in reference to guard wires for the trolley wires of their system. The company were quite willing to put the wires up, but pointed out that besides being of no particular use, they added to the network of wires now placed between earth and sky. The board seemed to think that something should be done with all the wires of the different systems, but not being practical electricians, believed it better to defer the matter for consideration. His Worship very sensibly pointed out that while the board should do all in its power to prevent accidents by electricity, the danger had evidently been considerably exaggerated, for with all the many thousand miles of wires and hundreds of electric systems all over the world, the ratio of accidents was very small. There is no doubt but what in the course of a very few years more the overhead wires will have to go, as the science of electric transmission becomes better understood, and then all this worry over guard wires will cease.

No Whiskey for Boys.

Ald. Wilson's by-law restricting the sale of intoxicating liquors to minors, has come into effect, and now it is an offence punishable by a fine of $100 to supply such minors with liquor. The by-law also provides for the expulsion of boys under the age mentioned from all saloons or places where dice throwing or other games are being carried on. Ald. Wilson, in speaking to the by-law last night, said that he remembered an old bit of verse which had for a refrain: "For remember out of boys you make the men," and he thought that the board should not forget it and should do all it could to protect the youth of the city from evil influences. For his part he should always, while at that board work with that end in view. He did not wish to carry on a war against the saloon keepers; far from it, as many of them were good honest business men, but he did wish to restrict those who did not seem to care what they did. The law, as it stood, would do no injury to those that observed it, and he hoped breakers of it would be made to suffer.

LeClaire Committed.

When the reporters walked into the city police court this morning, they were startled for a minute by the presence at the table set aside for their use of the "American attorney." When they were just comfortably seated the pompous individual informed them that if they were acquainted with him they would not "write him up," and [illegible] be commenced to waste a number of California politicians from whom certificates to his character could be obtained. As usual during the progress of the LeClaire case, which was the only one up, he took notes, especially when he was mentioned in the evidence as having been associated with the prisoner. One witness was closely examined by his honor in regard to the "attorney," who on being requested to give his name said it was Geo. D. Widowkind, of San Diego, Cal. He did not seem to care about hearing his name mentioned in the case, however, and he withdrew and let LeClaire plead his own case to a higher court, where he was ordered to go by his honor.

Well, That Depends.

It has paid us. On Saturday, the 5th instant, we advertised 20 per cent. off all Clothing. We have been rushing ever since, although some of our customers had to climb over a pile of rubbish about as high as a six-rail fence. If the streets were all full of rubbish it would be better for the town. It's a sign of progress.

OUR SALE STILL CONTINUES. We are bound to clean out our summer stocks. Better lose our profit than carry them over. We have piles of BOYS' SUITS left. We are not selling as many as we expected. Probably on account of the difficulty in getting to our store.

THE STRIKE.

The Scene Along the Road—The Temporary Dwellings.

Many of the residents of Nanaimo, says the Free Press would be much surprised if they to take a walk in the Departed Mountain and notice the condition of the present dwellings of the evicted families. Between the Halfway House and the Northfield mines the spectacle of these dwellings present a very dismal appearance and to the observer it causes a feeling of wonderment to take possession of him as the dwellings, (sheds they should be called) are so small that the families must be completely huddled up in them. They are far too small to admit of packing away the furniture which previously adorned their homes and consequently the people have been compelled to leave their furniture out in the open air exposed to all weather. Furniture and bedding has been moved into some of the dwellings that have not yet had a roof put on them and should a fall of rain set in the result would be disastrous. Besides these company houses, tents of all sizes line the way to Wellington and wretched little things many of them appear to be. On arriving at Wellington one can hardly see one of these tents, but by walking over to the bluff the scenes would only be worthy of a second Gettysburg, the tents there dot the ground in all directions and the visitor would be impressed with the idea that he was in the midst of a military camp. In spite of the present state of affairs the families appear to be quite contented and hardly a voice of complaint is made. The wives and families go on with their household work as though no trouble were hanging over them. The majority of the men are at present employed in erecting a number of these small dwellings for the evicted, so that a little stir is kept up in the district, but a stranger visiting Wellington will find the utmost tranquility prevailing.

P. C. Dunlavy is confined to his residence in this city by sickness.

T. G. Rayner, real estate agent, has gone over to the Sound ports on a business trip.

T. R. Smith, assistant commissioner of the H. B. Co., returned from the Mainland last night.

E. F. Ames of Boston, and senior partner in the firm of Ames, Holden & Co., of Montreal, Winnipeg and Victoria, with Mrs. Ames is in the city on his way to Alaska.

A. J. Belch, at one time of the St. Mary's (Ont.) Argus, but now promoted to a general insurance agency, is in the city. Mr. Belch was here three years ago, and of course is struck with the extraordinary growth of Victoria in the interim.

Among the guests at Rocesdella are Mr. H. Bastmann Page and T. W. Ripley of Boston, Dr. L. W. Clapp of Pawtucket, Mr. John Rogers of New York, Mr. C. T. Symmes of Lancaster, and Mrs. Kate D. Aspland of McPherson's station.

Hemp Culture.

Fred E. Odlum, a gentleman well-known in this city, writing to the Eastern press about the comparative merits of different countries for the cultivation of hemp, says: "Perhaps the best climate to be found for the cultivation of hemp is that of British Columbia, and countries similarly situated. The climate of Hokaido and also of the Tosawadro district of Nipon—the two chief islands of Japan—is about the same as that of British Columbia. In Hokaido hemp flourishes well. In Inasabiro it is extensively cultivated and is a valuable product.

I had an opportunity of testing the latitude and altitude limits of hemp growth, and am convinced that British Columbia has all in climate requisite to give a luxuriant growth of this article. Moreover, the soil is undoubtedly superior to that of Japan—in the district [illegible] It is superior to most other hemp textile country, larger timber limits, better fisheries, more beautiful scenery and a more cultured class of people, and the inhabitants are loyal Canadians."

The large gasometer tank for the works on Government street is to be filled with water soon under the supervision of the Water Commissioner. The tank will hold many thousands of gallons, and the fluid will be paid for at the rate of twenty cents per thousand gallons. To fill the tank a line of hose will be laid from the nearest hydrant.

Dropping Branches.

The rich green shrubbery of Victoria's gardens is one of the chief marks of beauty, but when property owners allow the branches of trees in their yards to droop over the sidewalks sufficiently low to slap passers by in the face, then instead of admiration the shrubbery calls forth profanity. Along several of the suburban streets in this arboreal luxuriance an unmitigated nuisance, and the sooner some steps are taken for its abatement the better for everyone.

Around the Courts.

In the Provincial Police Court this morning, J. W. Perry was fined $50 and $2 cost for shooting pheasants out of season. Perry pleaded guilty to the charge and saved the court the trouble of proving the case against him. He was up last October on the same charge and consequently must think pheasants are cheap at any price.

Clayton, the bogus subscription agent, applied this afternoon to be tried by Speedy Trials a request that was granted and he will come up on Monday.

They are Known.

S. T. Tingley, manager of the B. C. Express Co., told a reporter yesterday that the company are thoroughly satisfied that they know the man who robbed the Cariboo stage a few weeks ago, although as yet the officers have been unable to find him. The highwayman, he says, is still on this side of the line, and as soon as he is found sufficient evidence will be obtainable to hold him. The officers are still scouring the woods and if he is not found soon he will have to come out anyway on account of hunger, as he cannot live on his ill-gotten booty where there is nothing to get for it.

Satisfactory Progress.

The publication heretofore known as the Statistical Abstract and Record has been issued with the statistics of 1889, but its name has been changed to The Statistical Yearbook of Canada. The publication is prepared by Mr Sydney Roper, and is full of valuable information. The statistical summary gives a fair idea of the progress which the country is making; and the figures may be read with satisfaction by all patriotic Canadians. The immigration of settlers into the Dominion increased from 88,700 in 1888 to 91,600; the revenue from $35,000,000 to $36,788,000; the expenditure from $35,718,000 to $38,718,000; the Dominion lands dealt with from 800,000 to 1,088,000 acres; the postoffices from 7,671 to 7,699; the letters carried from 80,500,000 to 92,000,000; the newspapers carried from 68,700,000 to 70,700,000; the imports from $[illegible] to $[illegible]; the exports fell from $[illegible] to $[illegible]; the revenue increased from $[illegible] to $[illegible]; the miles of railway in operation from 12,188 to 12,628; the train mileage from 37,291,000 to 39,919,000; and the deposits in postoffice savings banks from $53,000,000 to $12,011,000. The Dominion is making steady and substantial progress, as its statistics say what they will.

Do Not Be Deceived.

"In Darkest Africa" is the title of Mr. Stanley's book. All others are bogus.

NAUTICAL NOTES.

Items of Interest Along the Water Front—General Marine News.

The steamer City of Puebla is due from Frisco.

The steamer Badger is on the beach being cleaned.

The steamer Douglas left for the West Coast this morning.

The steamer Queen is due here tomorrow on her way to Alaska.

R. Cunningham & Son's new steamer the Chieftan is in a fair road to completion.

The steamer Robert Dunsmuir of Nanaimo is in the hands of the Albion Iron Works.

The old steamer Alexander is lying alongside the outer dock having the old iron taken out of her.

The new steamer being built by W. J. Stevens, on the beach near the rice mills will soon be ready to launch.

The steam scow Mascotte came in from Nelson Island quarry this morning with about 250 tons of fine building granite on board. Many of the blocks weigh over five tons, but with her powerful machinery the Mascotte handles them easily. On the run down the Mascotte made the distance from Nanaimo in twelve hours, which is pretty good time when the shape of the vessel and her heavy cargo is considered.

The steamer China, which is owned by the P.M.S.S. Co., will sail to-morrow from San Francisco for Hongkong and Yokohama, and will touch at Victoria, as she has freight and passengers for this port. To square accounts the C. P. R. boats are to touch at Tacoma for business. The war between the companies will result in the reduction of freight and passenger rates, and it is not yet known just how far the rate cutting will be carried. The probability is that the rates will be lowered until it will almost be unprofitable for either company to carry on business, and then the usual result of such a war will follow. There will be a compromise, the companies will adjust their differences, and then the business will go on just the same as before the war.

Fruit Growers Association.

The exhibition of the Fruit Growers Association will be held in New Westminster on the 6th and 7th of August next, and as entries close four days before the exhibition, little time now remains any one wishing to make entries. We have not yet seen any announcement of convenient and cheap transportation having been arranged for. It will be necessary that such perishable things as plants, flowers and fruits be taken to the place of exhibition without unnecessary loss of time. But no doubt this will be attended to, although, by the way, there is little use so providing if the public are not to be apprised of the fact. The exhibition is one that ought to be encouraged by Victorians generally.

If a Man Must Drink.

If a man must drink the best thing he can drink with his meals is a little claret or light Rhine wine, and if he wants something stronger, Scotch whisky with water is the best thing he can have. The habit of taking a drink early in the morning—a cocktail or stimulant of that kind commonly called an eye-opener—is one of the worst things that can be done. The effect of alcohol is to inflame the stomach, and it will do this even when diluted, and will do so a great deal more when taken on an empty stomach early in the morning. The best drink that a man can possibly take is milk. Milk, though, is hardly a drink. One can live longer on it than any one thing. Milk is more nearly a perfect food than anything; it contains more elements that go to build up the system than any other article. Early in the morning the best drink to take is water. Tea and coffee drunk in moderation will not hurt anybody, although they are both stimulating.

Giant Timothy.

A sample bunch of mammoth timothy from Kootenay has been sent to this office by Mr. J. C. Hayes, manager for A. B. H. Cochrane & Co. As a specimen of what the earth around that district can do in the way of raising grass it is a grand success, but as no hooks and nooses were sent with the sample the stalks cannot be used for fishing rods, for which purpose their size seems to peculiarly adapt them. A healthy ox might be able to make a meal of a few of the stalks. If other agricultural products from that section of the world grow as large as does the timothy, a new style of harvesting gear will have to be invented to deal with the crops.

Vigilant Care.

Vigilance is necessary against unexpected attacks of summer complaints. No remedy is so well known or so successful in this class of diseases as Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Keep it in the house as a safe guard.
